

Bristol Sport Insurance Services Privacy and Cookies

What are cookies?

Cookies are small text files that are placed on your computer by websites that you visit. They are widely used in order to make websites work, or work more efficiently, as well as to provide information to the owners of the site. To purchase products on our websites you need to have cookies enabled.

Cookies are commonly used on the internet and do not harm your computer. We don't store personally identifiable information such as credit card details in cookies we create, but we do use encrypted information gathered from them to help improve your experience of the site. For example, they help us to identify and resolve errors.

More information about 3rd Party Advertising Cookies

We may engage in advertising on other websites to promote our websites. The advertising partners we use may serve adverts that it believes are most likely to be of interest to you, based on information about your visit to this and other websites (this information is anonymous in that it does not include your name, street address, email address or telephone number). In order to do this, our advertising partner may need to place a cookie on your computer. For more information about this type of online behavioural advertising and how to turn this feature off, please visit www.youronlinechoices.com/uk/your-ad-choices.

Managing Cookies

You can choose to prevent your computer from accepting cookies, however it will mean that some features of our websites will not work properly and may restrict your user experience. For example, you may not be able to purchase our products online. Most web browsers allow some control of most cookies through the browser settings. To find out more about cookies, including how to see what cookies have been set and how to manage and delete them, visit www.allaboutcookies.org.
